The Incomparable's Skeletor Clip Loop Chart

A running joke on The Incomparable is Steve Lutz's attempt to form a recursive clip loop that goes back all the way to him picking Skeletor

#281 I Love a Lot of Awful People -The Best of 2015

#281 I Love a Lot of

Awful People -

The Best of 2015

#281 I Love a Lot of

Awful People –

The Best of 2015

As he goes to pick the 2014 Skeleton

Future!Steve, who warns him of catastrophe if the clip loop is continued.

Perhaps not so regretfully,

Steve does not choose the clip.

4------

Listener Nathan takes up

John on his challenge, with an interactive audio chart:

https://gouwens.net/

skeletors-all-the-way-down/

Listener Alex takes up John on his challenge, making the chart that you're reading right now.

https://alexwlchan.net/skeletor/

clip, Steve receives a visit from 4----

Jason plays an unscreened clip.. which turns out to release the Skeletor loop back into the wild.

#333 That's How It Works: 2016 Year in Review

To avert disaster, Steve does not pick the clip loop that was accidentally played in the 2015 clip show.

#281 I Love a Lot of Awful People –

The Best of 2015

Listener Nathan (of the other clip Listener David picks the moment in loop chart) picks Steve picking the 2015 Clip Show where another Listener Ben in episode #228, Listener picks the Skeletor clip. but Jason refuses to play the clip.

As he second favorite moment, he picks the moment where they discuss what will happen to the clip loop in the 2016 Clip Show.

What Up My Young-Youngs?!

Jonathan Mann writes a song about episode #228, which includes a verse about Steve picking Ben, picking

Etienne, picking Laurie, Janis and Chad, picking Skeletor.

youtube.com/watch?v=SDc8wSF8jtk

#325 The Monster Mash

In front of a live audience, and as part of a supervillain/monster draft, Steve drafts Skeletor.

#387 Good Job, Jerks -The Best of 2017

Steve has questions about Jason's recycling technique from last year, and how that clip got to the end of the episode.

#440 Full Disclosure -The Best of 2018

Steve has some suggestions for improving Jason's recycling schemes. Jason pushes some buttons to Zoom And Enhance, so playing a new high-fidelity copy

#495 Congratulations You're All Pregnant -The Best of 2019

Steve accepts the inevitability of the clip loop. He picks the clip from episode 400, of him picking out previously unnoticed details in a clip of Jason picking up his recycling.

Jason refuses to play the clip loop.

4-----

#333 That's How It Works: 2016 Year in Review While taking out his recycling,

Jason plays last year's clip show, including the Skeletor clip loop and Jonathan Mann's song.

Skeletor vows revenge on The Incomparable!

#333 That's How It Works: 2016 Year in Review

As a favorite moment of 2016, Steve picks the moment in which he drafted Skeletor in the supervillain/monster draft.

#500 Amalgamated Zeppelin Monocle Company

When asked for ideas for future drafts, David J. Loehr proposes a Skeletor Recursive Clip Loop draft. Which is your favourite iteration of the loop? Maybe somebody of the clip loop in the episode.

will choose this image chart?